

sanlamere

singular dedication to global innovation

NEW look – NEW products - NEW website!

Products
Introduction

SanLamere UK
re-brand and
launch an exciting new website

At midnight on Monday 17 March 2008, SanLamere will go live with a new and exciting website providing access to its entire product range and giving the enquirer an ability to download all of its brochures, either in full or in part, thereby saving on waste paper and unnecessary printing. Steve Bromley, owner of exclusive bathroom and kitchen retailer Bromley and Ellis in South London, was asked to navigate the new site and had this to say in preparation for SanLamere's launch, "It's a great site with wonderful imagery. Combine that with the useful information provided, which our clients will definitely want to know and you have to admit that the team at SanLamere really have done a great job. I'll certainly be using it as a valuable resource."

Appearing on the new site and in all promotional material from tomorrow, will be SanLamere's bold new logo accompanied by the catch-phrase, "singular dedication to global innovation". Encapsulating everything about exactly what the company does best, SanLamere's re-branding exercise has clearly been designed to target the more forward thinking merchants, retailers and wholesalers in the UK, who have also come to realise that energy and water conservation really has become serious business.

Visit www.sanlamere.com today to see our exciting new product range!